

Let Me Be a Witness: And Other Daily Prayers

When author and photographer, Kendra Lacy, first started visiting the Viera Wetlands in Florida, she noticed that the best way to find pictures worth taking was to watch the cars in front of her, to watch what other photographers stopped for, to pay attention to those photographers who got out of their cars, who got down on the road or deep in the grass to get a picture. And, after some months, Lacy found she wasn't the only one who had discovered this trick. People in the cars behind her would watch her, watch where she stopped and then take pictures of the very same gators and pelicans and hooded mergansers she had just pulled over for. All of which reminded Lacy of what it means to be a good witness for God, that sharing God's truth is sometimes as simple as pointing out a bird hidden among the reeds. Sometimes being a good witness means simply slowing down and taking the time to discover and embrace God's creation. Here Lacy showcases her favorite moments from the Viera Wetlands, the truths she discovered, and the prayers they inspired.
