

Baring Teeth: A Paranormal Werewolf Romance (Baring Point Series Book 1)

Julian Catanzaro was born into disgrace. Being the son of a traitor isn't anything to be envied. Abandoned and disgraced by his father, who defected to a rival pack, Julian Catanzaro had prepared himself for a life to be lived on the outermost fringes of society. Katrina Clairborne had everything she ever wanted. Being the daughter of the Pack Alpha has its perks. Stubborn, beautiful Katrina grew up being given everything she ever wanted everything, that is, but a Mate. Watching her sisters pair off one by one with uninteresting men, Katrina longs for someone who can match her fire, someone who can make her blood burn the way the mysterious wolf in her dreams does. Wandering into the wrong territory might get Katrina killed unless he can save her. Katrinas feistiness gets her in trouble when she takes off deep into the Wild after a fight with her father. Lost, alone, and struggling to control her still-fresh powers, she desperately needs help. Julian finds her and, seeing a chance to redeem his familys name, begins fighting danger of all kinds in an attempt to get them both home alive. Babysitting the spoiled princess wasnt high on Julians wish list, but when all of the sudden he starts to fall for her, his priorities begin to change The only question is, will they make it out alive? EXCERPT Yes, the tall, blond, well-built scientist would do nicely for me for tonight. I watched for another minute through the window. My parents and their guests were eating canapes and drinking champagne. The guy in the turtle neck and frameless glasses looked like the perfect one. Intellectual. And sexy as hell. Just the way I liked them. My breath caught in my throat as I imagined how hed look later, disheveled and sweating in bed. There. He was going into the hallway. I timed it perfectly. He was just coming through the double doors as I entered, still in my wolf form. With graceful motion, I shifted before his frightened face. When I was completely transformed, I let out the breath I hadn't realized I was holding. It wouldn't have gone well if I had had a problem with shifting right in front of him. Still, that only happened when I lost control of my emotions. Right now, I had the power and we both knew it. I waited for his expression to change. There it was. His eyes glazed over as he realized that I was in my human form - naked. I smiled and paused a moment for him to get a good eyeful before I covered myself with my hands. I'm so sorry, I said, surely not looking sorry at all. Shifters are not embarrassed about their bodies the way humans are. I wasn't expecting anyone to be in the hall. His eyes were still on my unclothed form where my hands were ineffectually covering my full breasts. With obvious effort he dragged his eyes up to my face. Oh, right, no need to be sorry, he said. I should guess not, the way he was enjoying the view. I was just in the wrong place at the wrong time. He smiled, nervous, and ran his hand through his blond curls. I stalked over towards him on my way up the stairs. Or maybe you were in the right place at the right time, I said, my voice full of promise...
