Not illustrated. 1828 Excerpt: ...Lord Delamere, by the restored Stuart, so appropriately connected were the work, and the wages. His son, Henry Lord Delamere, who distinguished himself among the promoters of the Revolution, was sent with the Marquis of Halifax and the Earl of Shrewsbury, by the hero William, to his royal father-in-law, to order that King to remove from Whitehall, a message, says Lord Orford, which he delivered with a generous decency. The dethroned prince afterwards said, that Lord Delamere, whom he had used ill, had then treated him with much more regard than the other two lords to whom he had been kind. This second Lord Delamere, whom King William dismissed from office, to gratify the Tories, and created Earl of Warrington, and who died in 1693, aged forty-one, was described by a contemporary ver.sifyer as Fit to assist to pull a tyrant down; But not to please a prince that mounts the throne. The House was divided. The Yeas went forth. Yeas 110. Sir Thomas Style and Major-general Packer, Tellers. Noes 202. Mr. Annesley and Mr. James Herbert, Tellers. Journals. 1- Resolved, that the answer to be given.to the petitioners shall be,. The petitioners, I believe, were scarce well satisfied. The House rose at one. The Committee of Privileges sat in the House till nine at night, upon the business of Malton.1-They did not determine it; but it is clear for Mr. Howard against Robinson. Wednesday, February16, 1658-9. I came late into the House and found them engaged upon a great debate, touching an accusation of a member, Mr; Neville, for atheism and blasphemy. Mr. Bulkeley was speaking, and it seems he first stirred it, having been put on by three ministers,...
