Binggeli, of Schwarzenburg, thirty-eight years of age, Reformed; Hans Lortscher, wine grower, of Hllterflngen, unmarried, thirty years of age; and Hans Aeschbacher, husbandman, of Lauperswyl, twenty-three years of age. All these arrived at the end of the journey. On another list is recorded Hans 8chmied, Reformed, thirty years of age, Elsb. Schmied and two children, who arrived at Amsterdam. There had departed, therefore, altogether: 67 men among them 14 Reformed 76 men 2 21 single men 2 35 single women 3 147 children 346 persons 21 Of these, who had been imprisoned, there escaped at Basel, Ulrich Brechbuhl and Peter Blaser, of Lauperswyl, Peter Luthi, Anna Einmann, the wife of Smaule Roth, from the parish of Dlessbach, with her 1 Reformed husband Heinrich Schilt had already decamped at Wengen, making a total of six. Two women returned to Switzerland to their husbands--Katharine Moser and Barbara Steiner. With the permission of the authorities of Berne, two of the prisoners remained in the county on account of old age; Christen Dubach and Benedict Lehmann. There is a record of forty-nine names of persons who had reported themselves willing to emigrate, but who failed to appear. On the other hand, twenty-three went along who had not been advised, or reported, and who are enumerated in the foregoing register. At Breisach, thirty more persons embarked. These are in part the same who are mentioned as being recorded on one of the lists above mentioned. The complete record
