

The History of Philosophy in Islam

The following is the first attempt which has been made, since the appearance of Munk's excellent sketch I, to present in connected form a history of Philosophy in Islam. This work of mine may therefore be regarded as a fresh initiation, -not a completion of such a task. I could not know of all that had been done by others, in the way of preliminary study in this field; and when I did know of the existence of such material, it was not always accessible to me. As for manuscript assistance, it was only in exceptional cases that this was at my disposal. Conforming to the conditions which I had to meet, I have in the following account refrained from stating my authorities. But anything which I may have taken over, nearly word for word or without testing it, I have marked in foot-references. For the rest, I deeply regret that I cannot duly indicate at present how much I owe, as regards appreciation of the sources, to men like Dieterici, de Goeje, Goldziher, Houtsma, August Muller, Munk, Noldeke, Renan, Snouck Hurgronje, van Vloten, and many, many others. Since the completion of this volume an interesting monograph on Ibn Sina has appeared, which farther extends the list. MUNK, Melanges de Philosophie juive et arabe, Paris 1859. CARRA DE VAUX, Avicenne, Paris 1900. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and do not occur in the book.)
