

Oriental Studies (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Oriental Studies The assertion has been often made, and seldom denied, that the ethical code known as the Mosaic Law forms the groundwork of the civil and moral laws of all enlightened nations. It will not be denied that this is in a sense true, yet it is quite certain that the enunciation of this statement has often led to conclusions unwarranted by a survey of historical facts. According to Biblical history and common tradition, it was in the third month after the departure of the Israelites from Egypt that Jahveh, descending upon Mount Sinai amidst thunder and lightning, fire, and smoke, covenanted with Moses and established these laws, while the Hebrews with fear and trembling stood around the base of the mountain which they were forbidden to touch.
