

The New Internationalism (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The New Internationalism
The New Internationalism, rapidly welding the world into an economic unit, is not utopian. It is nothing less than a financial and commercial amalgamation of the nations. There is nothing an?mic in the programme, nor is there anything altruistic. The men who are inaugurating it are not poets. They carry their favorite book in an inside pocket, and the quotations with which they are most familiar trip through the ticker. Plato to most of them would be of far less consequence than a companys prospectus. The irreverent might say that it was a mistake of old to drive the money changers from the temple, for we have been compelled to take up collections ever since. About the Publisher
