

Some Impressions of the United States (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Some Impressions of the United States This small book is founded on four articles which have appeared in the Fortnightly Review for August and September 1882 and in Longmans Magazine for November 1882 and January 1883. The substance of those articles is here, together with an amount of new matter at least as large as the articles themselves. They represent observations made in the United States during a stay which lasted from October 1881 to April 1882. In the course of that stay I saw something of most of the chief Northern States; but I did not get further west than St. Louis, or further south than the northern part of Virginia. The impressions are of course those of one who looks at things for his own purposes and from his own point of view.
