

The Best Day Of My Life:: Memoirs of an Italian-American who spent World War II as a prisoner of the English (Austronesian Edition)

In a true story that reads like an Italian Angelas Ashes, the best day of his life was the day that 32-year-old Frank Andreani returned to his birthplace, the United States of America. Surviving a grueling youth and conscription into WWII on the wrong side, Frank delivers a dramatic picture of rural Italy, Rome, and seven years of captivity in English POW camps.
