

Waterlooville: A Pictorial History (Pictorial History Series)

Waterlooville takes its name from the Waterloo Inn, built in 1815 to serve the stagecoaches on the London to Portsmouth road, where it crossed the road from Havant to Hambledon. The author uses the vast Marshall photographic collection to show the changes and subsequent growth of the old village, which has been transformed over the past four decades. All you ever wanted to know about Waterlooville -and then some more!
